

A salon with style

Spa mogul Tiffani Kim and husband Bill Griffin, vice chairman of the Chicago Board Options Exchange, have been hosting salons for 22 years, to "bring together people from all walks of life, so they can share their ideas, philosophies and food," Kim says. She recently turned out a gourmet feast for 60. Carmen Dell'Orefice, the 77-year-old supermodel renowned for her silver mane and current gigs with Target and Rolex, was there, in town for a fundraiser at the Howard Brown Clinic. So were M.K. and J.B. Pritzker, Linda Johnson Rice, Neal Zucker, U.S. Rep. Lynn Martin, Jay Levine, Mary Ann Childers, Debbie Bricker, and Robin and Louis Berger. Tommy Tune was on his way until his flight from New York was delayed. But the star of the evening was Monster, the couple's 8-month-old Akita. "I couldn't tear him away from Carmen. He wanted to leave with her, and who can blame him?" laughs Kim.
